

I am accepting charitable donations.,

"Bethesda" reads as "the house is the..." in Spanglishrew ... CITY

Who knows whose ... Adamic language is, according to Jewish tradition (as recorded in the midrashim) and some Christians, the language spoken by Adam (and possibly Eve) in the Garden of Eden. It is variously interpreted as either the language used by God to address Adam (the divine language), or the language invented by Adam with which he named all things (including Eve), as in Genesis 2:19.

Yankee Doodle's Macaronic refers to text using a mixture of languages,^[1] particularly bilingual puns or situations in which the languages are otherwise used in the same context (rather than simply discrete segments of a text being in different languages). The term can also denote hybrid words, which are effectively "internally macaronic". A rough equivalent in spoken language is code-switching, a term in linguistics referring to using more than one language or dialect within the same conversation.^[2]

King's Langolier is a miniseries focusing on a rift in time consisting of two episodes of 1½ hours each (two hours each with commercials). It was directed and written by Tom Holland and based on the novella by Stephen King from the four part anthology book Four past Midnight. The series was produced by Mitchell Galin and David R. Kappes. The miniseries originally aired May 14–15, 1995 on the ABC network.

Rattle Rod's The Taming of the Shrew is a comedy by William Shakespeare, believed to have been written between 1590 and 1592.

The Matrix's Cypher^[1] (born Reagan) was a redpill assigned to the Zion hovercraft Nebuchadnezzar under the command of Morpheus. He was also the one who betrayed the crew of the Nebuchadnezzar to aid Agent Smith to help him achieve information on the Zion mainframe.

yitsheyzeus

yitsheyzeus found this wandering around the streets of Sun Valley, CA.... did I win?
#io1

yitsheyzeus palm trees... did i win?
yitsheyzeus random

2 likes

1 HOUR AGO

Add a comment...

...

Very much non-random; nearly every single word on this "cross-word puzzle" relates directly to something we've been discussing over the last year or so--affirmation of glyptic symbols like the "e" having the "bottom half" open to intrusion and references to P and L (where you'll note Moses' Lisp, Midas' Kiss and Washington's Obelisk connect our discloser and benefactor fairy clearly to Artificial Intelligence and Exodus) ... I found it walking down the street in Sun Valley, CA and just recently pulled it out of the my wallet and glanced at it again. "Raise" descrambles most of "Israel" (and connects it to "the" resurrection) ... something to do with B, VE, a reference tl Al in qualified and Q ... "AWESO" down one column and ... the below inadvertently connected reference to "supporting our troop" and the "NT< USE" also inadvertently connected to my new glyptic depiction of "R" on the next book's cover which I'll be showing you in a second.

IT'S IN THE WORD BEGIN-NIN-G, ... AND IN SONY PLAYSTATION, SEGA GENESIS, AND NIN-TEN-DO. JUST BENEATH THE SURFACE
A DIVINE PRIMER IN UNDERSTANDING HEAVEN.

older writing, but one of the first mentions of "stone to bread" and the NT as a "prototype" WWJD in re: "you're in the Matrix!"

I'm selling the thing on ebay, obvious I think it's a winner--even if CA won't pay a single lucky dime for it. It might be the kind of thing that could be used to prove the non-random influence of God in every day events; certainly it's a good example of the kinds of things I experience each and every day as I glance at signs all around me that relate very specifically to something i've just been thinking or talking about or written a message on; it's uncanny how much synchronicity I experience on a day to day basis.

⤳ You Retweeted

Adam Marshall Dobrin @yitsheyzeus · Aug 16

Replies to @TheMossadIL

me neither, i won't say no... either. believe me, i no.

petrovical.reallyhim.com < @Patreon. @PatreonSupport support our troop!

I don't clean up too bad, and I promise I don't actually have a lisp; or malintent... aside from perhaps a little bit of "mischief" left in me, more on the Pool of Bethesda in a little bit. We are very much coming to a turning point, I've decided to stop updating my "online book" and I think it's pretty clear from what's there that we have the key to unsealing the hidden code of the Matrix as well as a first step towards proving that this plan to take a Quantum Leap forward in terms of safety and happiness is signed in the hand of God... and very much clearly his "re" for ... Creation ... to help an entire civilization to "ascend" to the skies--to heal the sick and to feed both the hungry and the wise, a key verse coming from Ecclesiastes 9:11.

I've begun working on (yet another) book, and in the same kind of conspiratorial (I mean inspired) lightning from above, what appears to be the key to the "book of love" (I've been saying "bamboo and baseball" or hiccups, but you see the connection, right? hiccup.) came to me in the superposition of "Abraham" and "ubuntu" which superimposes well itself over another time-map through Creation that I've long kept in the back of my mind. It came first from the mythology of Stargate, which said that the wisdom of the Ancients was sealed up in the constellations; and you can see here (I think) how the letters A-D correspond fairly well to Mercury, Venus, the Holy Sea, and ... "shield" see how I El "Dia." It's probably worth mentioning the "Na" of NAS (and name and Manna and Prometheus) there "to help you 'a'" which I suppose might be something like the beginning of "ascend," and I even found Nathua on our Book of Life's map linking to a Tea \(cup?\) Garden and "Altadanga" where you might see "second A.D." and "ang" (which is code for dawn) followed by ... the ascension of Earth. Even "j to the d" ... haka ... means something special to me--it was the beginning of my version of "big bada boom" (Fifth Element) ... but you can also see Isaac's "he laughs" and the Ka of Willy and Veruka.

Nathuahat is a small town in Jalpaiguri district in the state of West Bengal, India, also referred to as "Nathwahat" or "Nattua". Nathua is located along the foothill regions of the Himalayas and is situated near the Jaldhaka Altadanga Tea Garden. The Daina river flows along the western margin of the town, and the Jaldhaka, Rangati, and Bamni rivers also course through the village.

ADAM MASHALL DOBRIN

The book is going to revolve around a "brief" ... exposition of what I believe to be going on all around us right now--specifically about what appears to be multiple "seas of people and worlds" represented by letters in "column" and other words and by the Fate sisters, weaving this emancipation that begins the process of the salvation of all of Creation with your hands. What I see here and believe to be a microcosm of further layers up ... and ties directly to the Tribulation and the ideas of the sacredness of our souls and the ideas of "oneness with God" and duality ... appears to be a hidden control infrastructure in something like a "totem pole" ... and it seems very clear it's the purpose of "music setting us free" and the words proving that there definitely is a hidden influence ... to help us use this technology to become smarter and happier rather than ... "not ourselves."

It is an emancipation, and it seems pretty clear that there's a tangible lack of desire on the ground here to "make the sword of Arthur" which is tied through these messages to the chain or Revelation 20:1 and the BLOCKCHAIN as well as another microcosm etched into my youth that this thing revolves around free speech and free thought and building a system of self-governance that utilizes available technologies to help self-governance. I'm not sure if that's because people think "it exists already" but I think it's pretty clear from the lack of freedom that we have here and the message that we are getting that even if something does already exist--it's not doing its job--and we're not doing our job if we aren't questioning that. It seems that what's been built has come from similar timelines as ours, places where mind control has been overtly hidden and whispers and secrets have dominated not just government but also the free press and what appears to be nearly every aspect of society. This is something that should be open source, and federated--and we should see that if it's not being used properly in the clear here... it's obviously not being used properly in the "invisible land" that we seem to rely so much on, as it sends us a message telling us that we need to "let there be light" here and now.

I've written about "RYZEN" a few times; but very succinctly what I'm trying to push us towards is a sort of "elation" at the prospect of actually being the builders of Heaven at the beginning of true freedom of thought and speech; the beginning of a revolutionary return to ... "the God given rights" that we clearly haven't been granted until now. I think it's obvious that as we transition from whatever it is that's causing this darkness and Silence that we're going to need a gradual process that ultimately (and hopefully very quickly, weeks, or months) replaces any kind of "artificial zen" with honest to goodness truth--when you see what this message is giving us, and when we begin to see that these things are very much possible and very much going to happen, there won't be any need for "false hope."

Adam Marshall Dobrin when i was in second grade ... i had too much homework one night, and i hid it behind my dresser in my room during an episode of the wonder years. my teacher never asked about it, but every single time the wonder years came on, every single week... i would feel guilty.

one day i fessed up and my mom helped me with the homework. it was probably the closest feeling to alka seltzer like relief that i had ever felt up to that point in my life.

and that's all i hvae to say about that.

i imagine if there was a worthwhile prize for doing the homework it would have been more than relief, something closer to elation. i wasn't elated though, just very relieved.

my homework on the other hand... it never stopped thanking me.

Like · Reply · 10h · Edited

1

Ben Warren

1 Comment

Like

Comment

Share

Adam Marshall Dobrin

Here's a bit of the beginning of the forward from the book, and some of the art that I've been working on to explain what I see and where it's coming from. While "Princess Bride" might be a strange place to come up with "rocks" hidden away in Rigel it connects very well with the mythological description of the "God K" and numerous attempts to succeed in disclosing that we are living in virtual reality--attempts that I see mapped in the Solar System itself. I'm ready now, by the way and I think you are too; if there was any doubt left. "Nothing but rocks and stars" was an early description of "the progenitor Universe" that I often spoke in my introductory days in Kentucky; here we can see it changing along with "we'll be counting Stars" to really understand that's the you and I of the U-n-i-verse.

As to your heart, or at the very least what my heart says of yours--it takes little more than connecting the logical blindness we've continued to blatantly ignore in sight of Roe v. Doctor Dwayne Wader and the newly inverted Larry Flynt vs. the People to gain some insight into how we've arrived at this particular crossroads in the Tempest that rattles our bones and visibly shakes the air in my little personal setting stage in this House of the Rising Suns.

The metaphorical connection between childbirth and the forging of a civilization should be more than clear to anyone who has been even tangentially clued in to the "trix of Names" that connects Exodus and the Matrix and the tapestry of the Gorgon sisters to the band named the Fray and the Tempest of Shakespeare. Even long before the web of intelligently designed messages was brought to the forefront of sight the links of nomenclature between fish eggs and fishing in a stream should have made at least a fair number of viewers of this very high profile Supreme Court decision a little curious if there was a trickster or an angel riding in the whirlwind directing this storm... if that is in fact the case, it hasn't crossed my screen or been viewed by my eyes even after pointing out "Fish Eggs" and its tangible connection to the woes that plagued a fictitious Martian colony in the very well connected Total Recall of Philip K. Dick ... whose personal vision and spiritual apocalypse do a great deal to help humanity in this time of forward retardation to regain its footing and once again take giant leaps forward on the road of progress that once was called "civilization" before we realized we've been spending all of our time and effort pretending that we didn't realize we had lost our bearing and direction.

ARMY/LEGACY

K'awiil, in the Post-Classic codices corresponding to God K, is a Maya deity identified with lightning, serpents, fertility and maize. He is characterized by a zoomorphic head, with large eyes, long, upturned snout and attenuated serpent tooth.^[1] A torch, stone celt, or cigar, normally emitting smoke, comes out of his forehead, while a serpent leg represents a lightning bolt. In this way, K'awiil personifies the lightning axe both of the rain deity and of the king as depicted on his stelae.

That's my "storm" ... condensed into Medusa and the "@".

The rest of the book is going to focus on my imagination's attempt at figuring out what it's going to be like to see something like "all around the world people are reporting limbs being spontaneously healed overnight" or something like that on the news--followed probably rather quickly by what I imagine will be an evening in the fabled city of Atlantis, or Ur, Zion, El Dorado, Paraadise City ... the object of the now Golden "audacity" and "toxicity" that's been evolving in my dreams from a "movie on the sky" to an actual floating city (maybe a sort of "Hub" for destinations known, unknown, and to be created) remaining there.

El Dorado ("the golden one"), originally El Hombre Dorado ("The Golden Man") or El Rey Dorado ("The Golden King"), was the term used by the Spanish Empire to describe a mythical tribal chief (zipa) of the Muisca native people in then Spanish colonial province of Colombia, who, as an initiation rite, covered himself with gold dust and submerged in Lake Guatavita. The legends surrounding El Dorado changed over time, as it went from being a man, to a city, to a kingdom, and then finally to OneRepublic. Do see that republics are made up of citizens participating in things like "how the government is built." This is literally a Golden opportunity.

I didn't really think that hard or look too far, it was just beyond me that there were no "jacks" on the back of our necks because we simply don't need them--and that's the heart of "Chevrolet." In a similar vain to "opsimath and topics" you can see "He-VR" means a little bit more than "Google Glass" and while Magic Leap has the right moniker, we still don't seem to grasp the difference between cryogenic sleep en route to Mars and being able to walk to an imaginary island in the sky in the blink of an eye--and then decide whether it was a shared dream or if you'll be finding HyperDoors in every bus station upon the conclusion of the second "blink." Eight. In all candor, I also can't really tell if that first blink is "in process" or if it happened some time in 2014 ... or two thousand years ago. Judging from the Silence, and all the subtly uninformative indirect communication it's hard to tell if anyone thinks "public" disclosure of a cure for Cancer would make it any better than the one that we have today... or if you'd benefit from a world that was visibly responding to the invention of the airplane with things like airports and free two day shipping; or you'd prefer to cast your ballots in exactly the same time frame and fashion that was used back in the days of love, marriage, horses and carriages.

more red dresses? :) The key to "Ham" son of Noah, which is the key to Ha'shem.

In my earliest days this "Pool of Bethesda" was something I dreamt up out of nowhere, trying to think of ways to help us see how very different a superior virtual reality could be over the "simulated reality" we currently know. In the back of my mind the concept of a pool that felt like ecstasy as it touched your skin probably came from "Cocoon" before me, and in all honestly I think we probably see that idea may have come from something like the "show" that I'm trying to explain clearly must be influencing us for things like Audioslave's "lost in the pages of a book reading how we'll die alone" actually being a metaphor for my soul ... to literally have come from personal memories in Kentucky. Songs about stores never spoken.

While I was there I linked it to the "King's Pool" which is mentioned in the Bible, and of course in my usual "malchutho" (that's "bad, who to" and I'm pretty sure it's the Hebrew word for kingdom) style I wrote about it in the "Doors piece" as a fixture in the "prototype room" that used some other user interface and "artificial intelligence microcosm" magic to help us see that Atlantis only needs one of those rooms--keyed at entry to create a new "instance" for every person or group that walks through the door. The pool itself appears mythologically linked also to Jupiter Ascending's "rejuvinator" and to P ON C.E.'s Fountain of Youth; to the Fairy Pool of Zelda ... and I'm sure there are many more. The point is that this thing that heals limbs and disease and makes us young and ... "really happy about that" is something that's found it's way into a significant amount of modern art and ancient myth. I'm not sure if the "reverse Rod and add o-versight" thing is hard to read or not, but there's more ideas and suggestions for what I'd put in the "prototype city" that I wrote literally in a single day... a long, long time ago. Ok fine, it was probably 2016.

I didn't really think that hard or look too far, it was just beyond me that there were no "jacks" on the back of our necks because we simply don't need them--and that's the heart of "Chevrolet." In a similar vain to "opsimath and topics" you can see "He-VR" means a little bit more than "Google Glass" and while Magic Leap has the right moniker, we still don't seem to grasp the difference between cryogenic sleep en route to Mars and being able to walk to an imaginary island in the sky in the blink of an eye--and then decide whether it was a shared dream or if you'll be finding HyperDoors in every bus station upon the conclusion of the second "blink." Eight. In all candor, I also can't really tell if that first blink is "in process" or if it happened some time in 2014 ... or two thousand years ago. Judging from the Silence, and all the subtly uninformative indirect communication it's hard to tell if anyone thinks "public" disclosure of a cure for Cancer would make it any better than the one that we have today... or if you'd benefit from a world that was visibly responding to the invention of the airplane with things like airports and free two day shipping; or you'd prefer to cast your ballots in exactly the same time frame and fashion that was used back in the days of love, marriage, horses and carriages.

The rest of this is older writing, most of it coming from "WH@" (my old "what should we do?" piece) but you probably haven't seen it or read it.

I do think we need some kind of "OVER SIGHT" to make sure losers drooling with doom in their basement (her words... oh my god, her words) cannot torture entire civilizations; or individual people--and so that I can't make 10 copies of Taylor to skinny dip with and envision a sort of place where "lines are drawn" about what is and is not O.K. in virtual reality--submitting my

"pool of Bethesda" is Link's fairy heart pool is Jupiter Ascending's fountain of youth is the fabled "King's Pool" of the Bible... and that I think it still should have an ignorance is not "bliss" button just like the antenna not attached to my brain should have a "mute" button.

Quark sheds some light on what I see, and it does really appear that I am speaking to "everyone" once in awhile, something that is scarier and more significant than each of us might see individually--not realizing the thing we are observing and experiencing is so broad, and ... so silly. It appears to me to be a sandbox-ed bad solution to a very real problem; the need to have a "global conversation" about the disclosure of "virtual reality" and what we can and should do with that information. Because of "what it is" it also does a good job of highlighting that we should be using tools like the news and the internet to have a better "conversation" that will include what you say and think and want to contribute, as well as "recording it" you know, so that in 10,000 years we still know who made Heaven--as opposed to dying wandering around in a desert of trying to figure out why Moses had a Lisp.

"they will always remember"

Making an ant farm

You will need:

- a small, narrow glass jar
- a larger, wide-mouth jar with lid
- can opener
- cheesecloth
- moist sand
- ants
- string or rubber band

1. Put a 1-inch (2.5 cm) layer of moist sand in the larger glass jar.

2. Find an ant hill in a dry place where the soil is loose. Poke the hill with one of the sticks and catch a few ants that come out.

3. Place the ants into the small glass jar. Put this jar upside down on the sand inside the larger jar and put the cover on the larger jar.

4. Fill the space between the two jars with the moist sand.

5. Poke holes in the jar lid with the can opener. Cover the top with cheesecloth, fastened with the string or rubber band.

6. Watch the ants burrow through the sand for a few days. Their network of passageways will amaze you.

Warning: Catching the ants requires adult supervision and help.

WHAT WOULD JESANT DO?

ver-nal e·qui·nox /vər'nal ē'kwē-nōks, ē'kwō, nōks, īkwē-nōks/

mean:The equinox in spring, on about March 20 in the northern hemisphere and September 22 in the southern hemisphere.zing*BLOWING KISSES MY WAY. NOT LIKE THAT.

It is a big deal, and there's a significant amount of work involved in merging an entire civilization with "virtual reality" and you might see why he calls it a hard road--at least in the word "ha'rd." Honestly though, it's the kind of thing that I am pretty sure the future will not only be happy that we did, but they'd thank us for putting in the effort of adapting to things like "unlimited food" and "longevity" increased by orders of magnitude.

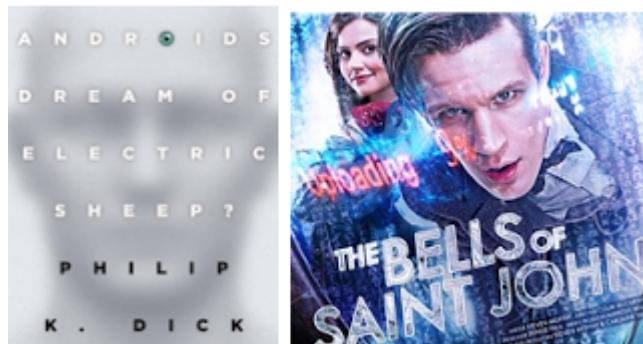

That's not sarcasm, these things are actually difficult to guess how exactly we'll go about doing them; they are a huge deal--all I can tell you is that not "talking about it at all" is probably not going to get us there any faster. Point in fact, what it might do is give a "yet to be born" generation the privilege of being the actual "generations of Perez."

I see why you aren't saying anything. That's sarcasm, again. The good news is that it really has been done before; though if I told you that someone turned stone to eggplant parm, would you laugh at me?

So, back to what is actually standing between "everyone having their own Holodeck in the sky" and you today; it is the idea that this message is not from God. More to the point it is the apparently broad sweeping opinion that hiding it is a "good thing" and through that a global failure to address the hidden interaction and influence acting on our minds used to make this map--and also to hide it. With some insight, and some urging; you might see how the sacredness of our consciousness is our souls is something that is more fundamental than "what kind of tools we have in the Holodeck to magically build things" and how and why the foundation of Heaven is truly "freedom itself" and how it comes from right this very moment for the first time, ever. Continuing to treat this influence as "schizophrenia" is literally the heart of why this map appears to be that--to show us how important it is to acknowledge the truth, and to fight for the preservation of goodness and logic over secrecy and darkness.

Again, something that nobody is really doing here and now, today. From this newfound protection of our thoughts, of who we are; we see how technology can be used to either completely invalidate any kind of vote by altering our emotions; or how it could be used to help build a form of true democracy that our world has yet to see. It is pretty easy to see from just band names like The Who and KISS and The Cure how the influence of this external mind can be proven, and shown to be "helpful," you know, if we can ever talk about it on TV or on the internet.

It's important to see and understand how "sanity"--the sanity of our entire planet hangs in the balance over whether or not we acknowledge that there is actually a message from God in every word--and today this place appears to be insane. It should be pretty easy to see how acknowledging that this influence exists and that it has a technological mechanism behind it turns "schizophrenia" into "I know kung fu" ... forced drug addiction and eugenics into "there's an app for that" and the rash of non random and apparently unrecognized as connected terrorist attacks and school shootings into Minority Report style pre-crime and results in what is clearly a happier, safer, and more civilized society--all through nothing more than the disclosure of the truth, this map, and our actual implementation.

With a clearer head and grasp of the "big picture" you might see how all of these things, connected to the Plagues of Exodus revolve around the disclosure that this technology exists and the visibility of this message showing us how we might use it for our benefit rather than not knowing about it. At the foot of Jericho, it is nothing short of "sanity" and "free thought" that hang in the balance. Clear to me is that the Second Coming, seeing "my name" on television is a good litmus test for the dividing line between light and darkness, heaven and hell.

The point is the truth really does change everything for the better; once we start... you know, acting on it.

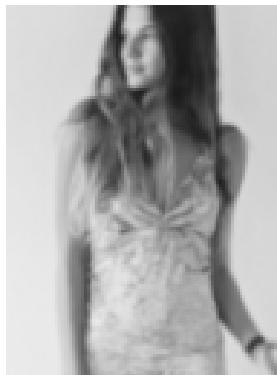

BUTT IS THE BOAT A Hi DARK DEN MESSAGE ?

SEE OUR LIGHT

Charoset, haroset, or charoses (Hebrew: חָרֹסֶת [hārōset]) is a sweet, dark-colored paste made of fruits and nuts eaten at the Passover Seder.

APPLE

HONEY

NUTS

In computer data storage, data striping is the technique of segmenting logically sequential data, such as a file, so that consecutive segments are stored on different physical storage devices.

Striping is useful when a processing device requests data more quickly than a single storage device can provide it. By spreading segments across multiple devices which can be accessed concurrently, total data throughput is increased. It is also a useful method for balancing I/O load across an array of disks. Striping is used across disk drives in redundant array of independent disks (RAID) storage, network interface controllers, different computers in clustered file systems and grid-oriented storage, and RAM in some systems.

Let's go skinny dipping. Come on... it'll be fun.

oh come on dad, it'll be fun.

RAID (Redundant Array of Independent Disks, originally Redundant Array of Inexpensive Disks) is a data storage virtualization technology that combines multiple physical disk drive components into one or more logical units for the purposes of data redundancy, performance improvement, or both.

For those of you that haven't read it or don't see it instantly--RAID and "stripping" are part of another technological microcosm to ensure that the "mesh network in the sky" (possibly called "Skynet" in Adamic-like-self-deprivation or "dust in the wind") that helps us to see how an infrastructure can easily be created that will not only ensure that things like "Operation Fishbowl" won't "ha-nuke-heaven" (or all humanity, as the ... message ... stops) and also that nobody's "souls" can be stolen, hidden or moved nefariously ... as they're never held in a single location. If we build this thing right, that's the end of Hell.

it's proof. beyond doubt. every letter. every element.

These are things that need to be done in the open, in the clear; to ensure that we're all safe and happy for a very long time... and that should be obvious. I hope you'll forgive my "Edenic theme" if it's offensive I suggest you su Exodus in reverse, the hidden silicon in Genesis ... maybe Mitsubishi ... and definately not the Gold in Auden, audacity, authority ... or El Dorado. Here is wisdom, dox me.

The hashtag in the subject follows a pattern I noticed in "niflheim" which appears to use "ni" as notation for "intersect through the eye ... Florida, Heliocentric, and" ... day.

It's elementary, my dear What-sons... the name is the key.

slackoff a little and come ask me a question for my birthday?*

Unless otherwise indicated, this work was written between the Christmas and Easter seasons of 2017 and 2019. The content of this page is released to the public under the GNU GPL v2.0 license; additionally any reproduction or derivation of the work must be attributed to the author, Adam Marshall Dobrin along with a link back to this website, fromthemachine.org.

If you wanna talk to me get me on facebook, with PGP via FlowCrypt or adam@fromthemachine.org